

The Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond
The University of North Carolina at Charlotte Urban Institute
The City of Charlotte and Mecklenburg County

Invite you to

Charlotte Data Day: Using Data for Community Development

▪
Tuesday, March 26, 2013

8:30 am – 3:30 pm

UNC Charlotte Center City Building
320 East Ninth Street, Charlotte

▪
You are invited to a community forum in uptown Charlotte exploring the connections among data, technology, and community development. We will look at local, regional, and national resources offering a wide range of information to researchers, policymakers, and interested citizens alike. Learn about the wealth of information available from the U.S. Census, the Charlotte-Mecklenburg Quality of Life Dashboard, the Charlotte Regional Indicators Project, and more.

All skill levels are welcome.

Come and explore, with presentations, discussions and hands-on workshops.

▪
This event is free, but registration is required. To register or view additional material, please visit <http://www.event.com/events/charlotte-data-day-using-data-for-community-development/event-summary-b10a11ac68ba4656887530b56d5eaf0.aspx?i=5f29357b-2ff2-4407-9b39-dd3be9f02244>

For more information, please contact
Karen Huffman (Karen.Huffman@rich.frb.org) or Laura Simmons (lsimmo19@uncc.edu)